Alexander Alekhine : Nottingham 1936: 21st Century Editions (Russell) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Nottingham 1936: 21st Century Editions (Russell):

11 of 17 people found the following review helpful. Value for money...buy, buy, buy By Jerome Lewis This book records one of the gretest chess tournaments of the 20th century, annotated by Alexander Alekhine himself! And it's in algebraic notation! All the chess greats are in this book and their play.....Capablanca, Lasker, Alekhine, Flohr, Reshevsky, Euwe, Botvinnik etc just to name a few past and future world champions....Do I really have to say any more!?! BUY, BUY, BUY, THIS BOOK!!!!

An Historic Clash of Generations! The great international chess tournament at Nottingham, 1936 has taken its place next to other legendary tournaments such as St. Petersburg 1909, London 1922 and New York 1924. It set a record by featuring, for the first time, four men who had held the world championship title Jos Capablanca, Alexander Alekhine, Max Euwe (the then reigning champion) and Emanuel Lasker. The champions were expected to be challenged if not surpassed at Nottingham by four young candidates, Sam Reshevsky, Reuben Fine, Salo Flohr and, in only his second trip to a foreign tournament, Mikhail Botvinnik, who turned 25 mid-tournament. There were some historic firsts: Botvinnik had never before played Alekhine, Fine, Reshevsky, Vidmar or Bogolyubov. Reshevsky had never faced Euwe, Lasker, Flohr, Tartakower, Vidmar or Bogolyubov over the board. Also, Nottingham saw the first game between Alekhine and Capablanca since their world championship match nine years before and their ensuing bitterness over a rematch. The tournament was, in short, a very rare event. In his great tournament book, Alexander Alekhine devotes attention to playing the board as well as to playing the man. This new 21st Century Edition has preserved Alekhine's original masterful text and annotations, using figurine algebraic notation and adding many diagrams.

About the Author Alexander Alexandrovich Alekhine (31 October 1892 24 April 1946) was the fourth World Chess Champion. He is often considered one of the greatest chess players ever. By the age of twenty-two, he was already among the strongest chess players in the world. During the 1920s, he won most of the tournaments in which he played. In 1927, he became the fourth World Chess Champion by defeating Capablanca, widely considered invincible, in what would stand as the longest chess championship match held until 1985.
