Love letter to a master of eleganceBy David M.I was sad to hear of the passing of Oscar de la Renta. His designs were pure elegance and so was he. This book is the exhibition catalog of his retrospective at the Savannah College of Art and Design(SCAD). There is a nice essay by the author as one of his longtime fans and supporter and a few other love letters are also included in the book. What makes this special is that there is not only photos and stories of the clients and celebrities wearing his designs but they are accompanied by beautiful clear recent images of the dresses. I will say that the designs are mostly recent. Of the 70 dresses profiled in the exhibition only a handful are before 2000. For a man with such a long career I would have expected to see more from his earlier years.

A sumptuous monograph tracing the life and legacy of fashion luminary Oscar de la Renta. In October 2014 one of the fashion world's champions, Oscar de la Renta, passed away, a great loss brightened by the innumerable successes of his half-century reign. The acclaimed fashion designer dressed first ladies from Kennedy to Obama, and celebrities from Beyoncé to Sarah Jessica Parker. Renowned for his unique charm, impeccable taste, and original lifestyle, he married the highest standards of French couture with the ultimate motivation that women must look and feel beautiful. In this intimate volume, longtime editor and friend Andr Leon Talley recounts de la Renta's journey through nearly 70 iconic dresses, mainly made for private clients, accompanied by fascinating stories of the exquisite craftsmanship and the legendary friends that brought each gown to life. Born in the Dominican Republic in 1932, de la Renta left for Madrid at nineteen to study art, where he rose to prominence as a sketch artist for newspapers and fashion houses. From his apprenticeship under Cristóbal Balenciaga to his eponymous collections, the designer's simple lines elevated with a flamenco dancer's flourish reflect his deep connection to his roots and his commitment to transcendence through beautiful garments.
