Pat Foster is a great automotive historian and writes a very entertaining storyBy CamsPat Foster is a great automotive historian and writes a very entertaining story. I do not own a Met but he piqued my interest enough that I would consider having one. The only reason I rated it 4-stars instead of 5-stars is that I would have appreciated more color pictures but he may have published all the ones that were available.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. A Must For Met LoversBy M.C. ShopperThis book is exactly what I was looking for. History, great photos, and anecdotes can all be found. There is all kinds of information on exactly what makes Metropolitans so irresistible even today, more than half a century after production ceased. This book is perfect for Metropolitan owners, dreamers and admirers alike. Whether you have a Met in your driveway or just wish you did, this book is a must read.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. A must have book for lovers of the Nash Metro.By dogloverA "must" read for all Metro owners. Great history of this classic little car with pictures over the years of Metro owners and their love of the best looking small car ever made.

A history of the first car of the modern era to be marketed primarily to women, the Metropolitan small car produced from 1954-1962. Written by thw foremost authority on American Motors cars.

About the AuthorPatrick Foster is considered the foremost authority on American Motors vehicles: Rambler, Jeep, AMC, Metropolitan, Nash and Hudson. He has written eight books on auto topics and writes for four major auto magazines.
