

[Free pdf] The New York Times Acrostic Puzzles Volume 11: 50 Engaging Acrostics from the Pages of The New York Times

The New York Times Acrostic Puzzles Volume 11: 50 Engaging Acrostics from the Pages of The New York Times

The New York Times, Emily Cox, Henry Rathvon
ePub | *DOC | audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF

Download

Read Online

#156821 in Books 2010-08-03 2010-08-03 Original language: English PDF # 1 10.92 x .36 x 8.65l, .40 #File Name: 031264139764 pages | File size: 40.Mb

The New York Times, Emily Cox, Henry Rathvon : The New York Times Acrostic Puzzles Volume 11: 50 Engaging Acrostics from the Pages of The New York Times before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The New York Times Acrostic Puzzles Volume 11: 50 Engaging Acrostics from the Pages of The New York Times:

3 of 3 people found the following review helpful. Skimpy, but full of quality puzzles By Russ A. I love acrostics and these are top notch. I've only done a handful so far, but the quality is excellent. The book is a bit skimpy. You will get more bang for your buck with one of the Simon Schuster Thomas Middleton collections (185 puzzles each for twice the price of these 50). Middleton's tend to be more literary than these, but so far I've found more variety in style with the NYT ones. So far I haven't found any cryptic acrostics, my favorite type, in this book. S S included a few of those. All in all, these are well worth it. Edit: After nearly finishing the puzzles I'm dropping my rating one star for one reason - the font is just too small. I have extra strong reading glasses just for puzzles and even wearing those I can't see the numbers clearly. Why in the world did the editors choose such a tiny font? there's oceans of white space on every page. They could easily have a number font twice the size it is at least in the clue section. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Impossible to solve

By Blueheelers Rock
I suppose if I was a pro at New York Times Sunday puzzles I wouldn't be so frustrated with these puzzles. I've been doing pretty challenging puzzles for years, but I cannot even get a couple of words in this book! Waste of money!
0 of 0 people found the following review helpful.
Good Exercise for Engaging the Little Gray Cells
By Kingsley Reeves
This volume of puzzles contains acrostics previously published a few years ago, in the Sunday NYT magazine, but I didn't do them way back when, so no problem--except for those of you who engage a search engine to research your answers-- beware your query could inadvertently bring up a website that has the actual word list answers to the particular published puzzle you are doing. The acrostics are all Cox-Rathvon edited by Short, which means, by and large, that the clues are more reasonably and more contemporary to deal with as an intellectual challenge than the older Middleton and Kingsley acrostic puzzles. Good bang for the buck.

50 Quotation puzzles from the pages of The New York Times
Edited by Emily Cox and Harry Rathvon
New York Times puzzles are America's favorite!
Whether your tastes are literary or lowbrow, this latest installment of fifty of the Sunday Times' famous acrostic puzzles features quotations ranging from Herman Melville to Dave Barry, Stephen Jay Gould to Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. So sharpen your pencil, put on your thinking cap, and get ready for some acrostic fun!

About the Author
Will Shortz has been the crossword puzzle editor of The New York Times since 1993. He is also the puzzlemaster on NPR's Weekend Edition Sunday and is founder and director of the annual American Crossword Puzzle Tournament. He has edited countless books of crossword puzzles, Sudoku, KenKen, and all manner of brain-busters.
Emily Cox and Henry Rathvon are full-time freelance puzzle writers. They live in Hershey, Pennsylvania.